Building A Future

Mr. Maib's Construction/Woods) "Vocational Project of the Year" of 1998-1999 continues in the 1999-2000 school year as students assemble sheds of all shapes and sizes. Many of the sheds are preordered or are quickly sold to community members and even Wa-Hi staff members. What will you miss most about teaching?

Having the opportunity to work with so many students who are committed to being the best they can be.

What will you miss most about Walla Walla High School?

Working at Washington State's most beautiful high school campus; working with staff committed to seeing every student reach his/her full potential; working in a school environment that supports the arts so wholeheartedly; working on Wa-Hi's incredible fall musicals.

What are your plans after retirement?

I will be moving to Lincoln City, Oregon, to work in a private school. I hope to find much more time for singing rather than directing.

Hamburg, Germany

Teaches:

Foreign Language

When I met an American friend in Hamburg (my home town in the north of Germany; 1.7 mill. inhabitants) and asked him about Walla Walla, he knew only two things to mention: "sweet onions" and the "State Penitentiary".

In other words: I had to find out for myself. And I did. I found out that against all my expectations - not to say "fear" - life in this small town (compared to Hamburg) turned out to be not only an exciting experience but balm for the soul. In a certain sense, time in Walla Walla seems to run at a slower pace. And I would have never imagined

how far indeed I learned to love it.

Teacher

A neat city with lots of pretty Victorian style houses, blessed with a marvelous surrounding (rolling wheat fields, picturesque little creeks, and the Blue Mountains) and incredible sunsets on the one hand side, and friendly, open-minded, and helpful colleagues and neighbors on the other hand side made it easy for me to settle down in a new and foreign environment.

Sure, it didn't take long to find out that America indeed is different. Not only as far as school is concerned. The attempt to buy such a simple thing as coffee milk, for instance, offered a deep insight into everyday life in the land of unlimited possibilities. I found "cinnamon-hazelnut", "Swiss chocolate", ten more flavors, and the apparently most neutral version was "French vanilla". It took me months to find out the secret hiding place of "normal" coffee milk....

And to the great disappointment of the Baker Boyer Bank employee, I rejected her kind offer to choose carefully at home among the selection of about 100 different motifs on the cheque forms. I asked for the "standard version"....!

And school, of course, is different too. I was under the assumption to have grown up with a strong developed sense for structure and organization. But in this country, it has been brought to perfection. I guess, in one week at Wa-Hi I filled out more forms than in the past decade in Germany.

On the other hand, I have to say, that I definitely enjoy the effectiveness of this system. I wish I could "import" part of it to Germany...

And what I really will miss after having returned to Germany is the well-equipped classroom that for an entire year I have the privilege to regard as "my" room. There is no such thing as "my room" in a German school, but teachers have to switch from class to class, instead.

There are three more things I will continue to envy Wa-Hi after having returned: First, the enthusiasm and the high grade of identification the students here use to demonstrate for "their" school. Second, the great pleasure to work in school buildings that are embedded in green nature and crossed by a charming little creek. And last but not least: I am full of admiration for those students that apart from doing a great job at school are working hard for hours and hours at supermarkets, shops, restaurants, etc. to earn some money to fulfil some smaller or greater financial dream.

I say again: I have a wonderful time at this school and in this town. And with foreign language students far away from the spirit I happened to come across recently:

"It's a funny thing. The French call it a 'couteau', the Germans call it a 'messer', but we call it a knife which is after all what it really is."
